The Endowment Fund Campaign

THE biggest event of the year, and perhaps the biggest event in the history of the University, was the drive for the $500,000 Endowment Fund, which reached its intensive culmination in April, 1920. Were it possible to give an account of every individual effort on behalf of our common institution, nothing would give us greater pleasure. As it is, only a few words may be said; but we allow the cut of the organization group of workers in this particular effort, in a general way, to tell the story.

The field to be covered in the campaign was divided into zones, each headed by a Zone Chairman. The committee on the matter of the whole campaign was headed by Mr. William Decker, of Montgomery, a member of the Board of Directors of the University, a manufacturer and business man, and a liberal supporter of Christian Education. Mr. Charles Steele, of Northumberland, manufacturer and business man, also a member of the Board of Directors, and no less loyal and liberal in his support of Susquehanna, is Treasurer of the Endowment Fund. The President of the University, Dr. Charles T. Aikens, was, ex-officio, a part of every activity, and he found great satisfaction in seeing his dreams of Susquehanna's greatness on the way to fulfillment. All the Zone Chairmen entered into their work with enthusiasm and determination. They organized the force and commanded the movements, as word came to them from the General Chairman. The result was that at the end of the period of intensive effort Susquehanna University had more than doubled her material asset, had made thousands of new friends, and was on the last lap of the race in reaching the $500,000 Fund.

This account would not be true to history if it omitted to say that the whole matter of realizing this fine achievement was rendered possible by the insistent efforts of our eminent alumnus, Dr. Samuel Z. Shope, formerly of Harrisburg and now of Philadelphia, specialist in diseases of eye, ear, nose and throat. Dr. Shope conceived the plan of procedure involved in this campaign, advocated it before the Alumni and the Board of Directors for several years, the result being its final unanimous adoption and support.

The spirit manifested by all the workers and the contributors as well, was most commendable. Nor has there yet been any manifestation of indifference. On the other hand, the Campaign for a greater Susquehanna is in fact really on and the forces of organization still function as opportunity presents itself. It seems not unlikely that for the five-year period of the pledges many additional contributions will, as now, continue to be made. Let the friends of Susquehanna stand firm in their faith in the great destiny of their institution and under the guidance of an approving Providence only their dearest hopes will then be realized.

HASSINGER DORMITORY

THE staff of "22" makes no claim to having produced any startlingly new volume in this year's annual. We've striven upward against odds and realize that we have not attained the heights of fame, but we've done our best. We've tried and in the trying we've been on the square every minute of the time. So if you must knock, join the Engineers but search within for that which you can praise.

If from these pages, you can glimpse the life at Susquehanna and find a bit of joy thereby, we'll know the game's been worth the candle.

Hoping that this book will be a source of pleasure for you and will serve as a bond between us in the years to come, we present to you

Senior Class Prophecy

HORTLY after my graduation from college I fell heir to a coffee plantation in Brazil which was bequeathed to me by my Great Grandmother on my Uncle's side of the family. This fact of course changed my entire plans and I set sail at once for that land wherein fortune lies for me. But all men have a desire to come back and look their old Alma Mater over after having been away from her halls for some time and thus one day on the spur of the moment I packed up and set out for the U. S. A.

In my journey home I found that the people of Selinsgrove had realized their dream and that the Susquehanna river was now a navigable stream and that my ocean liner could sail right up the old river and weigh anchor at Selinsgrove. On the boat I met two of my old classmates. Of Katie McCormick, now a Salvation Army lass, I inquired, "Whatever became of Marie Romig and Mabel Steffen?" She informed me that Marie and Mable were running a beauty parlor in Baltimore and also that the last she heard of Mildred Winston she was touring the south in a canvas covered wagon selling "Household Remedies." The other classmate on board was C. I. Fisher, now a notable and famous surgeon. Clarence said that only last week in the clinic he operated on Harry Swanger, Postmaster on the President's last Cabinet.

On reaching the old town I found that quite a number of my old classmates had never left the place but were now engaged in business. Bill Decker, Hartman and Bogar were running a bucket shop in the place formerly occupied by Eddie Taylor's beanery. A little farther down the street I read a sign "Cyril M. Zechman, Undertaking Parlors. I bury others. Why not you?" Mathias Moller had also founded a school of aesthetic dancing in connection with the University and had, as his partner, Olive Salem, late of "The Follies."

I walked down the street to Jimmie Styers News stand and bought a paper. Turning to the editorial page I was surprised to find that Naugle had given up the ministry in order to edit the Selinsgrove Times. Thinking of amusements for the evening I turned to that section and found that Robert Bastian, the eminent Shakespearian actor, and Russel Steininger, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, were giving a joint recital in town that evening.

19 LANTHORN 22

Strolling down the street with a big fat cigar in his mouth I met Jim Shannon who told me that he was engaged in the second-hand clothing business and that Chubby was none other than the University Pastor trying to keep the students on the straight and narrow path. Mose Ritter had succeeded Joe Seaman in the dancing academy and had also an advertisement in the paper announcing the return engagement of Jim Goss and his Saxophone Sextette. In this same paper appeared an account of a lecture given by Dr. Burns "Satan" Rearick, Chaplain for Barnum Bailey's circus and several other things of lesser importance.

I had an interview with Bill Decker and inquired concerning brother Knorr and found that shortly after graduation, Hank had been successful in inventing a "Gaseous Cocktail" and was now living a retired life on the income of his investments. As for Aurand and Russ Stettler, two other bright lights of the class, they turned out well. Aurand is now a metallurgist for a wooden automobile company in Detroit while Stettler holds a fine position as grindstone inspector in the same plant because of his ability to see deep into things. Decker was also able to tell me that Cole and Dunmire now had a chain of Jigger shops running from Delaware Bay to the Golden Gate.

I stepped out upon the street to inquire information and found the policeman to whom I spoke to be none other than our old friend Getty. He said that he and Deacon Sweeley were still Federal agents as well as partners in a detective agency located in Sunbury. "How about Ellis and Milo Lechrone" I inquired. Oh Milo is a race horse chiropractor in Kentucky while Ellis holds a responsible position as football coach in an Old Ladies Home. Good and Walker also are in a partnership concern. Walker being an eminent lawyer while Good is a professional witness for divorce cases. Concerning the last three members of the class I learned that Bohner had become quite a society man and had the title of "Chief Nabisco Eater on Broadway." Kuster had been married right after Commencement to a western damsel as well as three Iowa farms and "Red" Benner was now a Professor of Philosophy at a southern university.

So in these few paragraphs I have tried to set forward the fact that fate rules supreme and we are all destined to be something in this big world and that we must all look forward to taking our place and carrying our share of the world's work.

Junior Class Poem

The sun has passed the Zenith and we all are wide awake,
 For the class of nineteen twenty-two has gotten into shape;
 Our order from the Profs "Class" is keep your heart in tune —
 So let our face be smiling as the roses do in June.

With plenty of work ahead, "Class" we are happy all the while,
 And greet our daily labors with a Billy Sunday smile—
 The Profs have often told us "That the world was cold and blue;"
 But we can make it warm, "Class" by fighting for the true.

We've played and fought together, we've laughed and cried sometimes;
 They all have helped us onward, for life is not all rhymes,
 Yes, we've played, fought, laughed, and cried but studied some too,
 And all the while our heart beats for the love of twenty-two.

As freshmen we were awkward? this fact we will admit
 But how could it be otherwise in a cap that didn't fit,
 As Sophomores we were always prompt in showing Freshmen how—
 To do the jig on Seibert porch and bow before the Frau.

But now we're going down to third with banners waving high
 And a satisfied conviction they will tower to the sky;
 For all the mighty legions, both at home and far away,
 Have waved their banners brightly before they won the day.

REPUBLICAN

Just half a mile from school, along the northern bank of Penns Creek, is the home of our youngest classmate, Alice. Since her early days in public school her one desire was to attend Susquehanna University. All through her school life she has been preparing for this great event which she deems necessary to her career, and she is now numbered among the class of '22. Her aim has indeed been accomplished, and at present she is doing her utmost to prove herself worthy both of her class and the school. We certainly feel confident that she has succeeded thus far.

Alice is studiously inclined and would never think of neglecting her studies. Latin is considered the most important of all, and therefore receives first attention. No matter when called upon by her teacher she will recite, although at times her recitation does not exactly suit her. However, some day she expects to have full mastery of the ancient language and to be impressing its importance upon the minds of others.

In addition to study her favorite hobby is reading. She is interested in adventure stories, especially those of pioneer days, and at times she becomes so interested as to be unconscious of all that is around her. However, this only happens when a fine young gentleman proves himself a real hero in the story.

When Alice leaves school, which we know she shall do reluctantly, she expects to become a teacher. Owing to her pleasant disposition we are certain that she will become a successful one and has our best wishes in this career.

"Betz" or "Hon"

"Yes, um-huh, yes."

In the autumn of '19 when the class of '22 assembled for the second year of their work, this studious lassie joined our ranks. Mary has always been a very industrious girl which fact secured for her the county scholarship to any college in the state. Living in the vicinity of Selinsgrove she naturally chose S. U.

Mary has one special hobby which is Latin. And we would advise her to conserve her energy, which is wasted in walking, by riding on that little animal that she carries under her arms.

Social life and Mary are not close pals at S. U. This is not a peculiar situation, for the heart of this brown-eyed co-ed was captured by a warrior from our rival school up the Susquehanna. If by chance one should stroll along the banks of Penns Creek some moonlight evening they would invariably hear some one sing "Mary, Mary, Your the Girl for Me," and from the balcony in response "I might be You're Once in a While."

Betz is very congenial and her smile brightens up many of the dark places in the classroom. To her we wish the greatest success in all her future undertakings.

NON PARTISAN

Remember the Johnstown flood? It was then that "Tom" hastened to his little red canoe and started on his wandering career. The west wind blew his canoe thru many Pennsylvania streams until it wandered up the Susquehanna where it came adrift at the College town.

This specimen from Johnstown (can you imagine it) being tired from his long journey, seemed to us very quiet and peaceable at first, but O' Boy, how he has changed in two years. Now we find him a man of affairs. Affairs is a comprehensive word, as indeed it needs to be, if it is to be used in connection with him.

"Tom" is rarely seen in his room, but when he is in, it is only to read a few verses of the bible(?) The book of Esther being his favorite book.

He is also a great actor? using his room or the street for his acrobatic stunts. To "Tom," all the world is a stage, including the athletic fields, upon which he also shows more or less form, (mostly less) but he says he is a track man, and once upon a time persuaded the Johnstown bi-monthly to give him a "line" in one of its columns and send it to S. U. so he might show it to the fellows.

But you're going to go a long way to find a more wide-awake, heartier, happier college boy than "Tom." He is always one of the leaders in the gang. If he sticks to it we predict a successful ministry for him, and his name to shine among the notables of 1922 in years to come. The class wishes you luck. And lots of it.

"Deac"

Here note gentle reader, although this handsome young gentleman hails from the county seat of Mifflin County, he is not in the least carnivorous but is rather tended to be reserved and dignified. Oweing to his almost immeasurable fund of knowledge derived from life's greatest University of Experience, commonly known as "The College of Kicks and Cuffs," he is a valuable asset to those of us who need advice. Realizing the great benefits of a higher education and wishing to lend his aid to Uncle Sam he enlisted in the S. A. T. C. and through his natural dignity it took us some time to realize "Deac's" true worth. Although a confirmed and self-admitted woman hater he has ever since he has been with us manifested a love for agriculture and his scientific investigations have been often so interesting to him that they have lasted from Friday evening until Monday morning, and it is well known that some of the pretty country lassies were with lonesome hearts during the year '19-'20 when he was absent from school but "Adonis" has returned and now sallies forth on his peculiar investigations once more.

But to sum Orris up his vices are few and far between and his virtues many and great. He is a conscientious and faithful student, who by his agreeable disposition and his many fine traits, has won the respect and admiration of all.

Sure, and 'tis a big husky handsome chap that is seen in the above portrait. He hails from the Metropolis (blacksmith shop and general store) of Shippensville, Penna. In other words he is a big man from a little town.

Lawrence Martin blew in here as a freshman with a taste for mince pie which he has retained throughout his college career. "Bake" tendered his services to his country in 1917 and served overseas for eight months. He has viewed some of the most famous buildings inside and out.

In studies "Larry" claims recitation without study is good, but good recitation without study is better. However this young man has fully demonstrated his ability to do real work by scoring high marks in his third year.

In his love affairs, Seibert Hall has had no attraction for him. But he is well known among the sweet femininity of nearby towns.

Lawrence is recognized as one of Susquehanna's best athletes, and past history has recorded many notable deeds on the floor, gridiron and diamond. During the past football season "Larry" piloted the greatest eleven ever representing the Orange and Maroon.

This winsome lassie pictured above hails from the beautiful city of Berlin—don't be misled, for she does not live along the banks of the Rhine but comes from western Pennsylvania. She not only proves that she is a loyal American but also a true and spirited student of S. U. and is always ready to take an active part in all of its activities. As manager of the girl's basketball team we wish her the best of luck and success. We feel confident that she will perform her duties in an able manner.

As for her love affairs they are so numerous that they cannot be counted. Altho Ruth claims that she has never been kissed by the opposite sex??? we have our doubts for, when mention is made of H. W. G. taking leave, Ruth becomes quite flustered and blushes from ear to ear. However she remains faithful and true to but one. One need not stop to ponder as to whom it might be if they could but count the many missives sent from the University of Pennsylvania. She even shows how loyal she can be by returning in answer, seven letters in one week.

REGARDLESS

When the class of '22 acquired this phenomenon by right of discovery, they were blessed with a power that helps to carry the class burden instead of being a dead weight. We think that he has a wonderful future behind him. He is active in everything that he takes part in, but has no selfish ambition.

Beamie has elected to follow in the footsteps of Rockefeller, Carnegie or Wannamaker, for he thinks business, dreams business, talks business, eats and sleeps business and is business.

His spirit is one that cannot be conquered. Abuse causes his heart to bleed, but at the same time makes him more determined to have his aspirations succeed. The fact that he is Business Manager of the Lanthorn and of the Lyceum Course and Treasurer of his Class and Literary Society proves the confidence his schoolmates place in him.

Our prognostication is that Merle's subsequent possibilities shall be incongruous with the frustration of his phenomenally philosophical contemplations.

Socially he can very well use the words of Caesar, "Veni," "Vidi," "Vici."

As a student he is faithful and earnest, always having the confidence of his instructors.

A staunch friend, a worthy companion and a loyal classmate, we ask only that time will treat him well and fate will leave him power enough to win in all life's battles.

"Oh D - - - m it!"

Back in '17 this youthful son of our own college town entered the stately portals of Susquehanna with a worthy and commendable desire of gaining more knowledge. He would have graduated with the class of '21 if fate had not intervened in the form of sickness and caused him to be absent for over a half a year. But this handicap did not daunt him and his voice may again be heard on the campus, he is now a member of the class of '22 and we deem it an honor in having him on our roster.

Marland is studious, never cutting classes and is only absent when duty elsewhere calls. To hear him say, "not prepared" is a very rare occurrence. The only fault which has thus far been discovered is his regular tardiness to eight o'clock classes. But do not form the opinion that he is one of the species commonly known as a "book-worm," for he is always full of life, cracking jokes at opportune times, and into everything that spells fun.

He is a loyal supporter of all activities both of country and of college; his voice can always be heard in the rooting sections cheering our teams on to victory. When our country called he was not of age but nevertheless he offered his services for future use.

Now we think something should be said of his "affair-de-coeur," for he is a frequent visitor to our neighboring city and surely this must be due to the lure of the fair sex. But we cannot hold this against him as we also at some time in our lives have fallen victim to the little green-eyed god.

So kind reader judge not harshly but believe as we do that Marland will win in the battle of life.

This lad hails from the farm near Dalmatia in Northumberland County. Living on the farm Lloyd knows the meaning of work, and he possesses the trait of industry by his reputation as a student.

Several years ago Lloyd enrolled as a student at S. U. Academy and made preparation to enter the class of '21. He answered the call "to Arms" and served Uncle Sam faithfully in the army at Camp Lee, Va. Lloyd takes great interest in class basketball and has served his class nobly.

Altho this chap is not as popular about the campus as some, he has a circle of intimate friends. Lloyd to us is a very admirable chap, tho he has his Pennsylvania dutch brogue. This causes a lot of humor tho it cannot be avoided. We must speak a word for Lloyd in that he has improved very much since he has been here. He is willing to learn, takes sound advice and at all times is on the job. Lloyd has a personality and after one learns to know him he becomes more pleasant.

We predict great things for this brilliant student and know that his name spells success

"Oh H - -l"

One morning early in the spring of 1919 a young man appeared on the campus of S. U. clad in khaki. This young man was George Allan Botdorf. He hails from Freeburg, a town not far from Selinsgrove. He appeared among us very meek and innocent, which qualities he still retains. Prior to his coming to S. U. he served Uncle Sam in the great world struggle, being over seas. Very studious is he, and has made this his motto, "Never put off for the morrow what can be done today."

He must be given credit for his class work, for he is never known to say, "not prepared" when called upon to recite. His favorite study is chemistry although he devours mathematics astoundingly.

"Geo. Allin," as he is known to his classmates, has always been timid when he approached the fairer sex, and when they were discussed in his presence he is always silent as much as to say "I have ideas of my own about the women." He never believed in "Campuistry."

For this enthusiastic student we predict a bright future, although he has not decided what his life work will be, but true to his nature of waiting and watching, when his time comes we expect him to take up his life work in such a way that he will be an honor to his Alma Mater and Class of '22.

And there came a-oozin' out of Harrisburg another unknown quantity and to find its value was the problem that confronted us for two years. At first we were inclined to think this young man in love with "Morpheus" but we have been compelled to change our minds as he has proven himself otherwise.

As a student he does well in his classes as long as he stays awake, but oftentimes when the instructor calls on him there is no response for "Dee Dee", is fast asleep.

His love affairs are varied and range from Harrisburg to Mifflinburg including Susquehanna. Oftentimes during the time of campuistry you can see Dave wending his way to Siebert Hall where he becomes very "Grace-ful" among the fair sex. He believes in the theory that "Variety is the spice of life."

As a business man he is hard to beat for when he undertakes a proposition he is sure to succeed. As a result, he was chosen to be Business Manager of the "Susquehanna."

Last but not least, enough has not been said of this young man's ability for accomplishing. It is beyond our ability to express in words the credit that belongs to this kind, gentle hearted creature.

We prophesy for him a great future.

Cracky, close that door! Just see what the wind has blown in. A west wind and a mountain wind—what a combination and what a result. Altoona, accusing eyes are turned your way from the fair Susquehanna Valley.

Coming to us in the year '19 this frail young mountaineer has been found worthy of membership in the class of '22, after burning the midnite oil persistently during the past year. Oh, he's a braw laddie and knows the value of study.

With his dapper figure, hazel eyes, and "Queen Anne" haircut he makes a neat appearance on the campus much to the discomfiture of the shy maids who frequent these parts and whose weakness is a desire to mother all small bundles in sight. But his stature puts no limitation on his capacity. His many talents place him upon a plane far above the mediocre. Now we find him warbling sweetly some old-fashioned melody and again, directing the crowds to their respective places in the Gym. Now he is dabbling in chemistry and anon, with T-square and pencil engaged in designing.

He's an energetic chap with the figure of an elf and the loyalty of a Lincoln. He seems to have included in his creed of life "an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness" and to hear him razz a referee or deliver a tirade against a thing that hurts his friends is enough to make a judge smile. Loyalty is his middle name not Lewis, that is a mistake.

Mechanical Engineering! What a vision! But the class of '22 has faith in you. Go forth and conquer in our name and to the glory of Susquehanna.

Frank spends a great deal of his time in his room among his books and other things—mostly other things, including his trombone, which sounds to all on the second floor like a rusty fog horn on a cold morning. He has become a celebrated singer and is at the present one of the leading tenors in the Glee Club. His favorite pastime is going to the post-office to receive "that" letter. Due to his seriousness no doubt, we have never been able to know who she is.

As a student he works in spurts. He has frequently demonstrated that he has plenty of brains; only they are like an air-brake, applied in case of emergency. Whatever he chooses as his life work, we are sure, he will be successful.

"Bee" has said that she intends to teach a few years and then she wishes to study Medicine, taking up that profession in foreign lands. In the spring of '19 when S. U. opened its drive for the last term of the season, Verda was first seen among the students seeking knowledge within her halls. Owing to her unselfish disposition and ability for making friends, it did not take her many days to become acquainted with the campus. Her good nature and witty humor won her many friends.

However, she did not spend all her time socially but likewise proved herself a worthy student. This is evident by the fact that the following year she was able to join the ranks of the class of '22. And here in spite of difficulties she has worked most diligently to uphold the standards of S. U.

She possesses extraordinary talent in public speaking and we would not be greatly surprised upon hearing in the near future that she has chosen it as her profession. She delights in studying aloud and many times her musical voice may be heard resounding thru Seibert Hall.

'Tis in the social realm that she finds her delight. Verda often serves upon the "eats" committee and, owing to the many good things that we get to eat, we know that the right one has been chosen. She is especially fond of dancing and many a young fellow has considered himself fortunate in being her favored partner. Thus far Verda has not been fatally struck by Cupid's arrow but surely some day she is going to find the partner with whom she shall dance through life.

After leaving school she expects to teach for a while and then continue her studies. Whatever she may follow we feel certain that she will be successful. With her go our best wishes in her life's work.

"Graybe" hearing the call of Uncle Sam, responded immediately to the colors. After eleven months of active service in France, he returned to the United States and entered the portals of S. U. where he was welcomed into the class of '22.

Reader, do not be mistaken. Winey does not hail from the Holy Land, as one might judge from his appearance, but from the little village of Paxtonville, just a few miles west of the University, where the entire population flocks to the station to observe the arrival of the monthly train. He showed his bravery as well as loyalty to his country in these engagements.

He did not forget his College, and when he returned from the Army entered the class of '22. He is not only versed in the English Language, but also has made a close observation and study of the language of chicken, guineas, pigs, owls, etc., and very often we hear him about the campus imitating one or the other of these animals.

Although "Les" is no great shark, he always resolved never to let studies interfere with College activities, but nevertheless he is generally always prepared for class work with few exceptions.

He expects to make the Ministry his life's work and with his oratorical ability both in Language and "Animology" should be able to appeal to all kinds of people as well as animals.

Art is one of Glasgow's promising sons of which she should be proud. Upon hearing of Susquehanna as a school of ease and comfort, Art decided to enter here to regain the good health he had lost while sending cannon balls against the Germans.

Though not exerting himself too much he has managed to rank well with his classmates.

While Art does not claim to be a "Social Lion" indications are that he is a past master in the art of heart-smashing. He is now a devoted disciple of Benard McFadden, this however, is only one of his side lines. His biggest specialty seems to be eating. His intake is about twice that of any of his classmates but Art says "It am instinct" so we can't blame him for it.

Aside from all his minor faults Art is a serious young man. He is an ardent worker in the College Y. M. C. A., takes an interest in the work of the Literary Society and adds a helping hand anywhere he can.

His future, we hope, will be filled with success and happiness. His ambitious nature will some day make him a big factor in the line of work he follows. We of the class are inclined to think that "Louie" is hiding his light under a bushel.

By vocation he is a printer's devil. We don't care how this is interpreted because you can't go wrong interpreting either literally or freely. "Louie" has always confined his athletics to the Mexican variety being small of stature and gigantic in intellect.

Although a resident of the town "Louie" has always taken an active part in social affairs. Many a co-ed's heart has fluttered to the musical whispering of his voice, as he wove his dreamy romances beneath the softening influence of a mellow moon. However this has not been his claim to distinction during his stay in our college as is evidenced by his nickname of "Brigham." This name and its significance can easily be traced if we think of the founder of the Mormon church.

To elaborate upon all his good traits requires a book containing as many pages as the A. E. F. had cooties. But one of his lines of greatest achievement lies on the football field. He has also distinguished himself as one of Susquehanna's most clever basketball stars.

He is one of those fellows who do well whatever they have to do. Sometimes one would think, to hear him talk, he is about to do something violent; but we have long ceased to fear him when this mood is upon him. Gentlemen, here it is. We've come to it at last. Get in line. Don't push, you'll all get a chance to see it. It is the only insect of its kind in captivity. Where it was captured there is little known. Scientists have traced it through every part of the scientific world, even down to Barker's Almanac and still it remains puzzling, at any rate it will be remembered by a few of his confederates that one special occasion it showed exceptional traits of the butterfly.

It seems that it has blown from that dark and desolate country surrounding Williamsburg. We, the Smoked Herring Society of Susquehanna University trapped for the benefit of our class this peculiar specimen of humanity. The above is a very good portrait. Gaze upon it with tearful eyes, a lump in your throat and an utter expression of awe. On casting your eyes upon this "minnie" fish you would wonder how on earth there could ever be anything hammered into that ivory dome. Nevertheless you would be astonished to know that this young man has a remarkable knowledge of his a, b, c's.

His gross anatomy having now been given, we will pass the microscopes for you to ascertain his deeper qualities.

Aside from all this Walter is a very good student and is admired by all his classmates. He is exceptionally good in mathematics and physics and intends to take up engineering as his future work. During the late war he spent seventeen months over-seas and upon his return he again took up his work at Susquehanna. Of course, it will not. We'll see to that, for it is but the outward evidence of the 'shady' good humor that this sunny youth from Western Pennsylvania disperses at all times and upon all occasions. Upon his approach we stop and listen, for we have well learned that an attentive silence will be amply rewarded with the latest bit of slang or 'frisky' pun. This sophistry however, does not by any means comprise his entire education. He is a good student—if we say it softly and omit mathematics. During Dr. Houtz's last "Reign of Terror," this cotangent was observed hopping around the classroom like a wild antelope. But then again this excitement might have been caused by the arrival of a certain blue letter. Who knows? (Yes! he is a man of affairs and it was inevitable that some of these should be with the attracting sex, but as yet he has not succumbed.)

In addition to these things, this classmate of ours possesses sterner qualities. His versatility is demonstrated by his consumption of both "Five Brother's and Beechnut." He smokes infinite tobacco but his pipe is infinitely worse. His heart is right but he is invariably "in wrong." His smile is broad, but there is nothing back of it. His face is full, and 'tis rumored also his head, but there is absolutely nothing in it. His complexion is clear, but his brain foggy, his feet steady but his head dizzy. But he is a gentleman for all this; certainly! He occasionally wears evening clothes but never underclothes.

"Doc"

"Tooty"

DEMOCRAT

No, this is not a judge of the Supreme Court; it is just plain, energetic, quixotic "Doc," who hails from the beautiful city of Williamsport. We realize the previous mentioned city must be alluring in more ways than one because of the magnetic attractions exerted upon "Doc." This, of course, is not insinuating that he has one of the fair sex in line, but we cannot help but wonder at the numerous flying trips made to that wonderful city of attractive, black-haired beauties, from which he always returns with the energy and pep of ten ordinary men. Be this as it may, we find our classmate always on the job with the goods whether it be serious or humorous.

His college course at Susquehanna began after preparing at Wenonah Military Academy and Swarthmore Prep. To see this erect, soldierly looking young man about the campus convinces us of his early military training.

Edmund's ambition in life is to be a doctor, but judging from his ability as a cravat salesman we would advise his affiliations with a necktie concern.

But seriously, "Doc" is a clean-cut man and for him we predict a brilliant future whether it be in his chosen career or whatever fate holds in store for him. We can feel assured that he will be an honor to his Alma Mater and the Class of '22.

"As an owl, always looking wise."

"Fuss, Slim, Roth"

And it came to pass in the early days, that there came to S. U. a Goliath in stature; a David in heart; and an Absalom in form; nor was Solomon in all his glory arrayed like this one.

Now the Boche gathered together their armies to battle and Roth went out and fought with the Boche, and slew them with great slaughter; and they fled from him. The glory of this young man was his strength.

And when the war was expired he returned and cast his lot among us. Wisdom, being the principal thing, therefore he got wisdom, and with all his getting got his understanding. Behold, he is wiser than Daniel; there is no secret they can hide from him. Lo, he hath come to great estate, and hath gotten more wisdom than all them that hath been before him. Counsel is his and sound wisdom. Day unto day he uttereth speech and night unto night showeth knowledge. There is no speech nor language, where his voice is not heard.

He hath given songs in the night. His listeners were of small power, they were dismayed and confounded, they were as the grass of the fields, and as the green pasture. At that time, when all the people heard the sound of the cornet, flute, and all kinds of music, they fell down and worshipped their leader. (Sophomore Band.) He wrestled with the giants in college games, returning as the ever victorious conqueror. With flattering lips and with a double heart hath he spoken. All his loves he hath forgotten; he seeketh them no more, because of the Grace that is given to him. With her much fair speech she causes him to yield. He loveth her with an everlasting heart.

Stop! Look! and read about this young Apollo, for his exploits are as famous on the athletic field and in the classroom as those of the Greek hero himself. Neither is the social side of his life neglected. Just by gazing on the likeness above you can see why he is so popular with the co-eds.

Zig hails from the land of tin horn artists, Paintersville, and he is no exception to the rule. Entering S. U. three years ago in the fall of the S. A. T. C. he joined its band and helped it to attain its great fame. But music is not Sam's only talent, for every sport finds him on deck though basketball and baseball are his favorites. In the spring term "Lefty" is out every afternoon practicing baseball and a cleaner fielder and a better batter would be hard to find.

Siebert Hall's attractions have no effect upon Zig, but we have heard a rumor that Cupid's darts have struck him from another section of the country, although there was a time when Selinsgrove was good enough for him.

In the classroom Zig does not rival Socrates with his philosophy but he is an earnest student and willing worker. Dude is not stuck up as you might suppose by the name, as can be verified by the host of friends he has won with his sunny disposition and a pleasing smile.

Whenever there is anything doing Zig is with the bunch ready to do his part in work or play. Here's best wishes and every success to you, loyal classmate in your life's work in the pulpit.

REPUBLICAN

This dignified personage hails from the wilds of Somerset County. Having laid a firm foundation for his college course in the teaching profession in the West "Jack," after Uncle Sam was thru with him in the U. S. N., decided to realize his greatest ambition, a college education. He landed at dear Susquehanna ready to do his bit for the good of the institution. By his pleasing and commanding voice he has become one of the most valuable assets to the Junior class not only on account of his services as Editor-in-Chief of this book, but also on account of his services in the concertizing Glee Club and upholding the dignity of the class in tennis, and a conscientious worker for Clio. As a cheer leader he has set forth a fine example of what school spirit ought to be. As local editor of the Susquehanna he strives to put before the faculty and student body, various reforms and needed items to make our campus and college life the best.

He is not exactly adverse to studying but he believes, all work and no play would make "Jack" a dull boy. He is very fond of out-door exercise known as campusstry. It would be hard to determine how often he has fallen a victim to this disease, his affections being frequently transferred from one fair maiden to another. Seibert Hall holds no fear for this proud man because of his congenial ways. He will always appear in the foreground. A fit husband for any girl who can prove her worth. "Jack" believes in practical teaching and seriously objects to learning lessons verbatim. If he does not like you, you will know it—and vice-versa. He is a hustler from start to finish, and we the class of '22 predict for him abundant success in the honorable profession, which ever he may choose.

Dave hails from Billtown and is more than upholding the reputation that this beautiful city overlooking the placid Susquehanna has for producing good men. After taking his Freshman year at Penn State, he found himself able to compete with the class of '22, and since his affiliation with us he has proven himself capable in many ways. His main activities in college life are Football, Glee Club and a decided abhorance for his studies. In football, Dave has proven himself a worthy member of his class being the shining light on the gridiron. But Tarzan has a few virtues which are peculiar to a species of this kind. Possessing exceptional abilities he occupies a prominent position in the Glee Club. During his leisure moments which are many, he may be found diligently writing a letter to the fair maiden whose heart he has won. This no doubt is the reason for Dave's numerous week end trips home. But with all these eccentricities he is a big hearted soul ever ready to lend a helping hand and we see nothing but a bright future for him.

In the fall of 1918 there came to us out of the dirt and smoke of Johnstown this brave and handsome personage generally known as Mag. In a few days after his arrival he made himself a hero in the sight of the world and Seibert Hall by joining the S. A. T. C. which organization, famous for its daring exploits, soon brought the war to a close. Mag soon became still more famous because of his ability along social lines. His conquest of Seibert Hall proves this.

At dancing "Mag" rivals Vernon Castle. He is said to be the strength and mainstay of the Armory and the dancing aquarium in the neighboring towns. In fact it was reported that were it not for him both of these now flourishing enterprises would long since have gone out of existence.

When "Mag" first arrived in this town he certainly was in the "Neandertholoid" stage in music, but due to much tutoring he has made such rapid advances that he can now whistle the "Schoch National Air."

Nevertheless Mag's social prominence is not alone confined to Seibert Hall. He is a great favorite among all the students. He always has a good story to tell and any company of which he is a member certainly has no dull moments. He also is a favorite with the faculty, always completing his work on time and in a very satisfactory manner. Anything that he undertakes is with his whole heart and he is sure to make a success.

The class of '22 certainly is with him in his chosen calling and with one accord wish him success.

This is Wallace who hails from the smoky industrial city of Pittsburgh. Foremost among the by-products of this steel town comes Wallace, the living exponent of manhood, truth, constancy, piety, love, hope, charity, patience, chastity, amateness, and beauty of mind and body.

Wallace, in righteous wrath over the delayed outcome of the World War, took his journey into our midst, and became, to the ultimate sorrow of all loyal sons of the "Fatherland," a part, or shall we say the master key of Uncle Sam's National Army. The real significance of this stupendous sacrifice is seen in the fact that in a little less than three months after his debut into the S. A. T. C. the Fatherland succumbed. But Twat was not finally MUSTARD out until November 11, 1920 in the far reaches of the A. S. O. Home—a ceremony "A la Ivory Soap." For further particulars consult the "Deacon."

We cannot in all fairness to Wallace charge him with any studying to speak of, though tradition tells us that he has actually been known to spend as high as ten to twelve minutes on a week's Greek assignment.

Wallace has found his "better half" in the small city that is so dear to us all, Selinsgrove. In all seriousness Wallace must be congratulated upon his good fortune in having such a one to guide him over the treacherous shoals of life's journey and to sew on his buttons.

Wallace is a man? that is endowed with natural-like abilities and is all in all a true scholar and gentleman, which facts give proof of his tutelage in childhood and Christian parentage.

Summoned by the irresistible call of the bugle, Ernest came to S. U. and was one of our most valiant soldiers.

Ernest is a great outdoor enthusiast and at any hour of the morning one may see his cherub like form tripping gracefully over the Snyder County roads.

As a student Ernest has an uncanny faculty of knowing when he will be called upon to recite, by our honorable Profs. and thus he saves a large amount of work which his less fortunate classmates have to undergo.

At the booth of a fortune teller at a recent carnival in Selinsgrove, Ernest was told that he would be called to the bar and since that time he has devoted himself to the preparation for same.

Ernest has a heart as big as the outdoors and is ever ready to lend a helping hand to any of his school mates.

Whatever his calling may be the class of '22 will ever be proud to know that he was a member and we wish him the utmost success in whatever he undertakes.

This tall and handsome young adonis is a Harrisburg product and Harrisburg is justly proud of him. Little Chester, better known as "Doc" first wandered into our Emporium of learning in the summer of '19 after successfully eluding the truant officers in his home town. The history of his episodes during the summer term are somewhat clouded in mystery, at any rate he liked her well enough to come back and he has not missed a term since. The history of his stay at Susquehanna is a record of achievement worthy of pride and our class is proud to hail him as one of its most worthy members.

His amusements and idle pastimes are too varied and mysterious to be mentioned here. However he occasionally takes Horace Greeley's advice and travels westward, although his reasons for doing so are not found in the book or rules. In the summer time he is a loyal patron of the S. & S. trolley line, going to Rolling Green Park in order to rest his feet.

But with all Chester is a hard worker in all lines of effort and his future is filled with promise and hopelessness. When last interviewed it was his intentions to continue his studies, etc., at the Wharton School of Finance, and then enter business. With the aid of his "Natural Philosophy" we predict great success for him in his chosen work and in all his endeavors. Certainly with his tireless energy and worthy ambitions he is bound to become a power in the business world. Sophomore Class History, 1923

LIKE some small oak tree starting its life in a realm unknown to it before, striving to gain a foothold upon those principles which mean life to the tree, so also the "Class of '23" has striven thru their Freshman year to obtain the necessary preparation to aid in the movement of advancement. However, there comes the time when the branches of the "Giant of the Forest" will be spread in many directions. Similar to this branching is the time when the members of this class shall be compelled to separate and to follow their different courses of life. Sad to say that this period of dismemberment is too fast approaching as time goes by in its speedy flight.

History is but a collection of events and happenings of the dim and fast fading past, and to the historian of the future classes we shall leave the work of recording those acts which are sure to be enacted in time to come.

In the silent hours of a beautiful September morning the Sophs went out of their place of secrecy and started the campaign of posting the warnings to the terrified Freshmen. The latter not to be outdone had thought of a plan whereby they wished to undo our work, but morning found that wherever they might chance to look they were sure to see the admonition to them concerning their conduct while at S. U. during their initial year.

The deluge of rain preceded the annual tie-up for several days, but on a day in early October under a clear sky, the new sons of S. U. were met on Warner Field. The Sophs although outnumbered two to one went into the fray confident, and it was only after ten minutes of courageous struggle that we were defeated.

As was the custom of the Sophomore classes that had preceded us, we too, published a calendar, which because of the ready approval that it received, we are glad to record has been a success.

But we dare not linger in our ever onward steps toward forward motion and as we have left the role of Freshmen as progressive students, so also we shall go in in the future working zealously, always with our motto as our aim, "Reality not Dreams," and together with those principles which we have acquired in time past, and with spirit of ambition urging us onward, as future days pass by we hope that we may at least help to bring honor to the university of which we had once been a part.

Freshman Class History

E, the history makers of the future, enrolled at Susquehanna on September 22, 1920. Of course we had to undergo the looks of scorn and disdain of the Sophomores, but we just grinned and thought "some day we'll get 'em." (And we did with red paint.

We joyfully sang "How Green We Are" and willingly followed the kind advice laid down by the "Proc" of the upper-classmen. As in every other class we had a few slackers who refused to follow this advice, but hazing soon taught them to respect it and their worthy superiors.

Since organization leads to efficiency, we met several days later for the first time, as the class of '24, electing our officers and planning for the "Tie-up."

This combat took place October 5th, on Warner Field. After several minutes of struggling from out the chaos two triumphant Freshmen took a Sophomore across the line, and in a short time all his classmates had joined him.

After our victory in the "Tie-up" we decided we could elude the Sophs and hold a moonlight picnic. On a large truck we led them on a merry chase to Rolling Green while we went to Luck's Grove. Here among the trees we built a fire, played games and cheered for the absent Sophomores. Our worthy Preceptress became one of us, joining in the fun and telling stories. Upon returning we found our rooms had been rough-housed but uncomplainingly to their disappointment, we restored them to order.

Now we are working hard to become worthy Freshmen of Susquehanna. As "Work Wins Everything" we think we have made a good beginning on the road to success in classes and athletics for the Class of '24.

The Rejuvenated Literary Societies

OW that the literary societies are showing renewed activities, the interest in both societies being greater than it has been for some time past, it is well to call attention to the advantages that a student can derive from belonging to a literary society and taking part on every possible occasion.

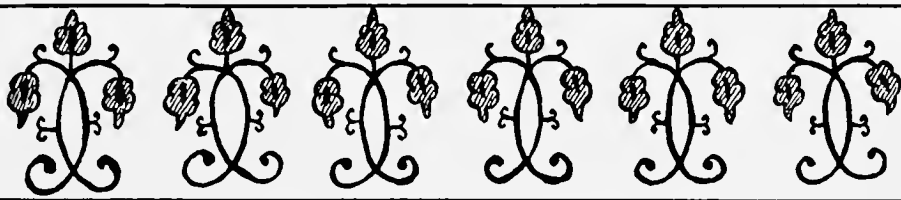

Of course there is no benefit to come to one from merely having ones name enrolled in one of the societies, but when he gets the spirit of the true literary society member and is able to see and appreciate the fine points in each performance, to take his part in the voluntary as well as the assigned performances, he will no longer ask, "What's the use?"

Because the literary is the student's organization there can be a greater freedom enjoyed and less restriction required than in the class room. A person accustomed to taking part in the literary society generally can be recognized by his greater freedom and naturalness while upon the floor, his ability to think while before an audience, and his natural accuracy and readiness of speech, all required chiefly thru practice.

In fact, the advantages and pleasures of the literary society are so plainly evident that it is a matter of wonder as to how some of our reliable students who are generally awake to affairs of their own interests, could have reached their Junior and Senior years without having identified themselves with one of the societies. It is almost incredible that the recent literary society "shake-up" and assignment revealed several students in the advanced classes who were not affiliated with either society. It is to be hoped that now since each student taking college subjects has been assigned to one of the two societies, the new students will be given full opportunity for the development of those talents that are so often discoverable only accidentally.

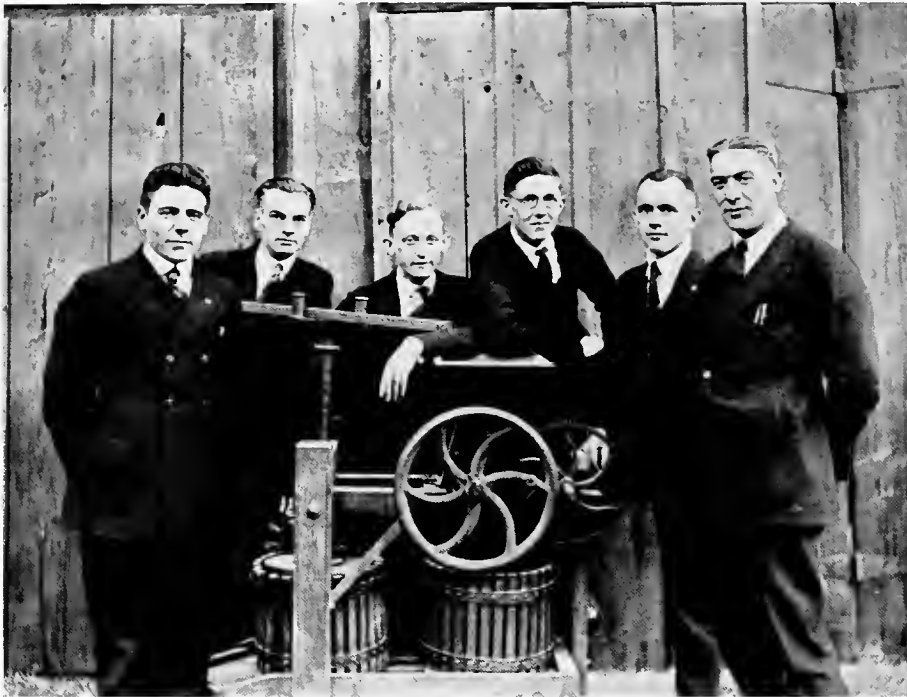

Among these new members there may be a latent Caruso, Paderewski, Madam Melba, Patrick Henry, or Depew. The more advanced the student in scholastic rank the more quickly should he be pressed into service and given the opportunity to make up for lost time. Of course, it is impossible for him to get the development and advantages within four months that he could have obtained during a four-year period, but the practice in debates and oratory that can yet be his, should count for as much as possible.

The old "faithfuls" have done well, and much credit is due them. They may now have the satisfaction of seeing the results of their labors crowned with success and new men and women coming into the ranks to be trained to take their places as they in turn pass on.

In Memoriam

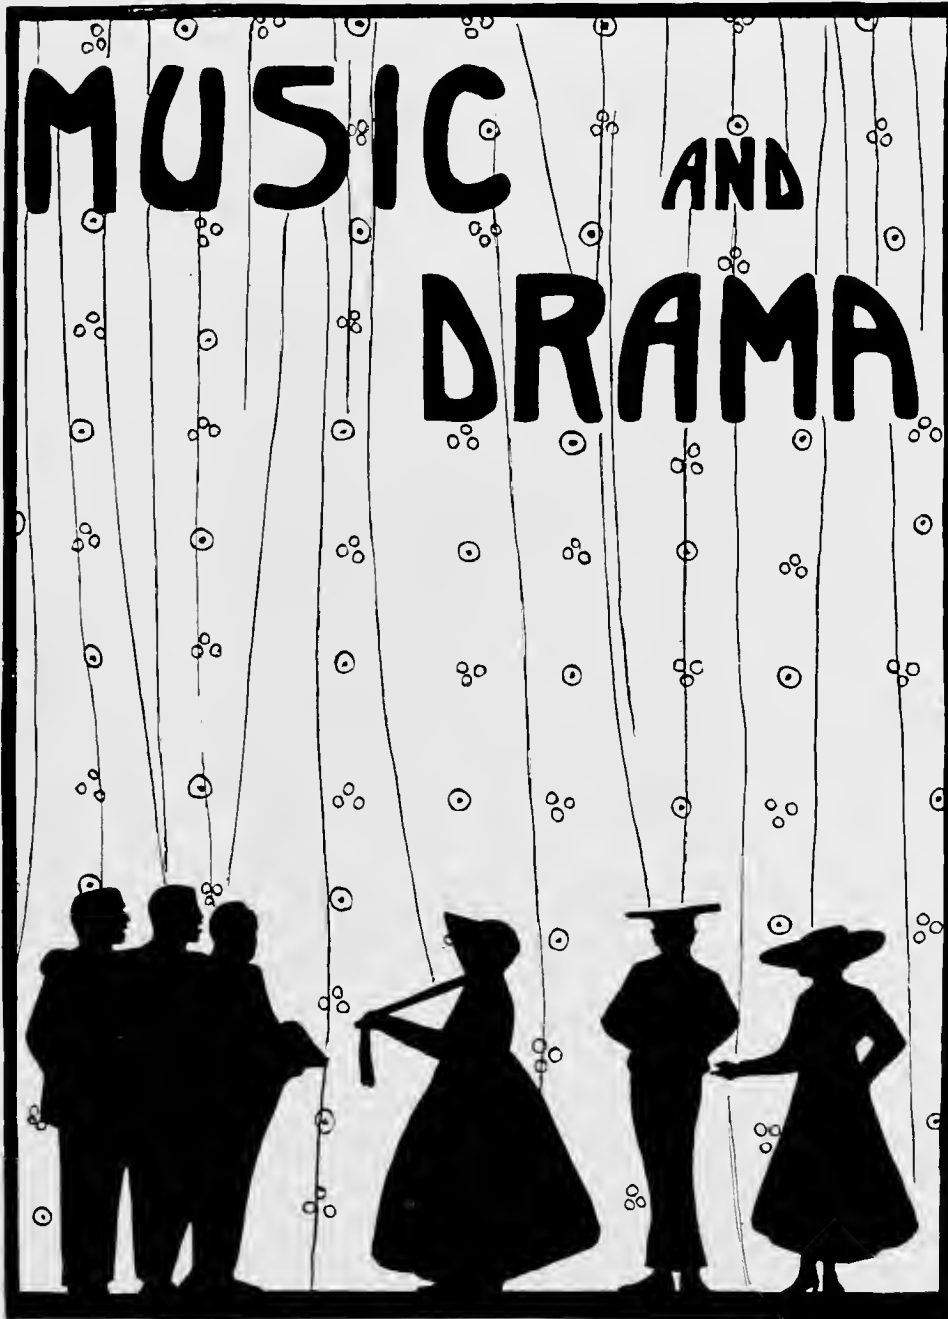

Jonathan Rose Dimm

Jonathan Rose Dimm, A.B., A.M., D.D. was born near Muncy, Lycoming County in 1830 and died at Selinsgrove, Snyder County in 1920.

After having graduated from Pennsylvania College in 1857 and having served as principal of several smaller institutions, he was elected principal of Missionary Institute in 1882. His natural aptitude for teaching, keen executive ability, and constant energy soon manifested itself in the larger growth of the school and when Missionary Institute became Susquehanna University, Dr. Dimm was elected President. He served in this capacity until 1889 when he retired because of failing health.

His was uniquely a potent life and through him Susquehanna first became a distributing station for that wealth of inspiration to be found in her halls. He gave his life to Susquehanna and in his passing the college has lost one of its great strongholds.

Athletics

THE year of 1920 has seen the birth of a new era in the history of athletics at Susquehanna. The torch of progress has come to light the bon fire of achievement. May it kindle an unquenchable fire whose flames will reflect down the corridors of time the glorious deeds of Susquehanna's athletes.

With the election of Claude G. Aikens, Graduate Manager and J. Paul Harman, Assistant Graduate Manager, Susquehanna has put her athletics on an efficient basis. In the first year of its trial this system has proven highly satisfactory and as it becomes better organized in future years, it will be a deciding factor in the betterment of athletics at Susquehanna.

This year has also seen a change in coaches and we are glad to welcome such a leader as Coach G. O. Stahl. Although in the first year of his work, he has already become highly popular with the student body and with those who have been under his immediate direction.

Susquehanna has always turned out a good team in her major sport football, and the team of this year is no exception to that rule. By holding Colgate to a tie game at the beginning of the season, she startled the football world and, although several games were lost before completion of the schedule yet the team of 1920 made an enviable record for itself.

In basketball the team has not been unusually successful yet has made a fairly good record. The material was mostly new and did not consequently develop that high type of team work which is evident in those teams which have played together for a number of years. We predict that under the tutelage of Coach Stahl a wonderful team will hold up Susquehanna's banner next year.

The baseball season of the spring of 1920, following closely upon the heels of departing Mars, found a sufficient number of veterans on the diamond to augur well for Susquehanna's re-entrance into the baseball arena. The schedule was creditably played but at no time did the season show signs of becoming extraordinarily successful. However, after a little more time to reorganize and get back to normal, Susquehanna, we have no doubt, will take her old place among intercollegiate horsehide tossers.

In conclusion we have to note the passing of two pillars of strength in our athletic department, H. Don Sweeley and J. Paul Harman, who have stood out in strong contrast as preeminent leaders all through their college careers. H. Don Sweeley whose efforts on the field have endeared him to the student body and made him a figure of universal admiration in the university, has captained all three of the major sports and at all times gave the best he had for Susquehanna. "Judge" Harman, after giving his unselfish and devoted efforts on the field during under-graduate days, has since then been mentor to our managers and during the last year has been the power behind the throne, a prime minister, as it were. His leadership has brought Susquehanna before the public eye in a greater way than ever before and made our athletic policies such that if they are continued will keep Susquehanna ever in the limelight.

Review of the 1920 Football Season

ANOTHER page in our football history has been turned and, although blotted here and there with defeats, is a record of a team which under the efficient coaching of Kid Stahl, soon developed the form that took them through the season with an aggregate of 129 points to our opponents 87, giving us a total of three victories, two ties and three defeats.

The season was opened October 2nd with Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y. It was an ideal football day and the team played as the 28th Division fought at the Second Battle of the Marne, bringing honor and glory to Susquehanna, and startling the football world by a scoreless tie, 0—0.

On the following Saturday, October 9th, the team accompanied by fully one hundred and twenty-five rooters departed for Harrisburg on a special train. Led by Captain Baker, the men trotted out on Island Field with hope and confidence of winning from Lebanon Valley. The opponents getting the breaks of the game, we were overwhelmingly defeated by the score of 24—0.

October 16th, we scored our first touchdown on Warner Field against Gaulladet University, the game was fast and interesting throughout, score 7—0.

The following Saturday was a runaway on the Meredith Field at Sunbury with Drexel Institute, rolling up a score of 59—0.

October 30th the team came back to their own, and triumphed over an old rival P. M. C. The score, 35—0, when telegraphed home so startled the faculty and students that Dr. Aikens was heard to say, "I have not heard such news, no not at Susquehanna."

Another excursion was run to Emmitsburg on November 6th, where the team put up a fine exhibition of football, but being over confident from The P. M. C. game, we tied Mt. St. Mary's 14—14.

The greatest blow of all was experienced at home on Warner Field November 13th when Albright trimmed us, 21—7. The team was accused of being defeated by their many fumbles, but aside from this we were completely outplayed.

The final game of the season was that with Bucknell at Lewisburg on November 20th. The field was in a wretched condition owing to a recent rain which handicapped the players. Both elevens fought each other to a standstill but our team, being outweighed, were overpowered experiencing a hard but honorable defeat by a 28—7 score.

The Team

HARMAN

"Judge," after two years absence from the gridiron, once more became a nucleus about which to build a team. His kickoffs were a feature of every game while his interference and defensive play stopped many an attempted gain.

LECRONE

Halfback

"Slivers," proved himself worthy of all confidence. He never saved himself but was always into the hardest plays with a punch. He was injured at P. M. C. and put out for the rest of the season.

DUNMIRE

End

"Dunny," a speedy end, excelled in going down under punts and breaking up interference. His play at Colgate was phenomenal, showing him to be a gridiron performer of sterling ability.

GETTY

Guard

"Uncle," the side-kick of "Red" could endure and charge when others failed. His ability as a player and his well rounded character have not passed unnoticed by the Faculty and Students.

SWEETLEY, Captain of 1919 Squad

Quarterback

"Deacon," was a star of great magnitude. A wonderful open field runner, field general, and tackler, he has made a record never surpassed by any other quarterback at Susquehanna.

REARICK

Center

"Red," the pivot of the team, was so sure in passing that not a bad one was marked against him. His tackles were sure low, and powerful and proved a great asset to the secondary defense.

ROGAWICZ

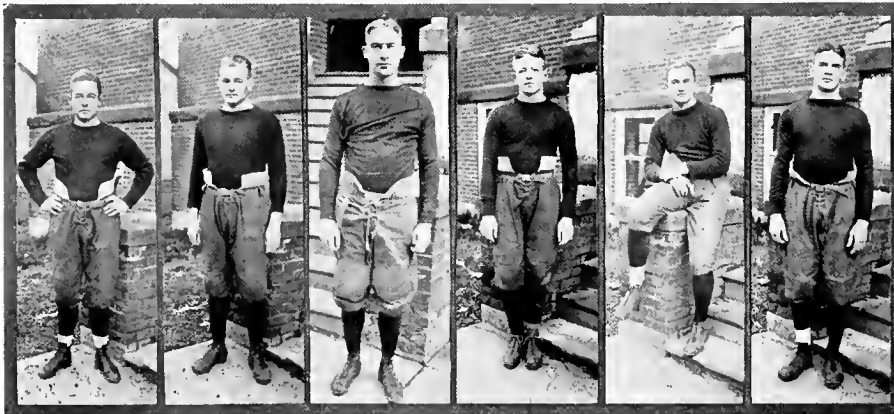

Center

"Roggie," always got the jump on his opponent. He is a sure tackler on defense and is noted for penetrating the line against the best of teams. His greatest game was Bucknell where he tackled their doughty backfield repeatedly for a loss. Watch this lad next year.

GUTH

Halfback

"Mother," the old reliable, became a recognized star in his department. He was a hard man to stop and a consistent ground gainer while passes directed his way from the opponents were very liable to be foiled.

19 LANTHORN 22

CAPTAIN BAKER

"Bake," was a peerless leader. He worked hard every minute of the game and was in every play until the final whistle. At tackle he was part of the stone wall that met the repeated onsets of play and his offensive work was unexceptionable.

STEUMPFLE

"Dave's," true manliness and reliable work were an inspiration to the team. He is rangy and powerful and, when others failed, would plunge the line for great gains. Injured at Colgate, he was unable to play the rest of the season, a loss never overcome.

BLOOM

"Bud," was a fast man. Being especially apt in breaking up interference, he never lost an opportunity to "scupper" a man from behind. He was one of the best tacklers on the team and handled forward passes effectively.

CARPENTER

The "Local Lad" from Sunbury started the season as running mate for "Judge." He broke interference as a veteran and managed the forward pass well. He was a fast, plucky end.

ROTHFUSS

"Todd," was one of the grittiest men on the team. He was a good thinker and always put up a plucky fight. By blocking a play in the last few minutes of the game at Colgate, he kept them scoreless.

BENNER

"Reds" was a general utility man for line and backfield. He was an all around player but strongest on the defense. His work in the back field always impressed our opponents with his presence.

BANNON

"Bear Cat" was a whale of a fullback. His strong offensive play, his execution of forward passes, and his remarkable punting marked him as a man to be reckoned with all through the game.

SWEENEY, Captain-elect

"Beanies" was one of the old guard. He was quick to diagnose a play and could be relied upon to get into it. His ability to intercept forward passes and turn defeat into victory kept him ever in the limelight.

Reserve Football Team

Although constantly drained of their best men to strengthen the varsity, the reserves gave invaluable aid in preparing the varsity for its stiff schedule. In addition they played several games and made good showing. They have well earned the gratitude and respect of the student body and all friends of S. U. by their loyalty to the Orange and Maroon.

Review of the 1921 Basketball Season

Susquehanna opened the season of 1921 by losing a loosely played game with Bucknell by score of 24—14. Of the new men out, Leidick and Rogawicz showed the best form.

The second game was easily won on the home floor defeating State Forest 44—34. This game showed great improvement in the team work.

Next the team left on a four game trip to western part of the state on which, on account of the strong teams played, they only won the first game defeating Waynesburg 45—20, and losing to Duquesne 23—19, St. Francis 18—24, and State College 47—13.

Lebanon Valley came to Selinsgrove with a strong team and was defeated by score of 39—30. Due to efforts of Coach Stahl the team was put thru hard workouts in preparation for the remaining games.

Two days later Albright won a very closely contested game, the issue not being decided until the last few minutes of the game.

The Susquehanna huskies and followers now traveled to Lewisburg where they met defeat at the hands of Bucknell in perhaps the most exciting game of the season. It was not until the very last minute of play that Bucknell put in a new man who scored two field goals which made the score 33—25.

A two day trip was then taken which proved unsuccessful but by no means humiliating as both games were lost by only a few points. Scores being Albright 39 Susquehanna 30 and Lebanon Valley 40 Susquehanna 30.

After the Lebanon Valley contest the Varsity played State Forest on their own floor and won by a score of 33—25. This is the first time State Forest ever lost on their own floor. Following this game Susquehanna lost in an extra five minute period to Mt. St. Mary's at Emmetsburg, Md. by a score of 31—25.

The final game and the best played was at Selinsgrove where the fast St. Francis team which only lost three games out of 18 was defeated by a score of 36—33. The Varsity showed the best team work of the season, finishing with a creditable record.

Base Ball Review

After a period of two years without Varsity Base Ball Susquehanna last spring again put a strong line upon the field. Handicapped on account of having but a few experienced players, the task of producing a winning combination was a hard one. When the call came for candidates a large number appeared upon the scene and battled for the various positions.

The team was fortunate in having for the first month "Dick" Kaufman, Susquehanna's former star diamond performer and now manager of the Atlanta Southern League Team, as coach. Under coach Kaufman's tutoring the team developed rapidly. After the leaving of coach Kaufman for the South, Jay Riden and "Red" Swoope handled the team. Although the team was not the best that ever represented the college yet a creditable showing was made considering the difficult circumstances that were met with while resuming this Varsity sport.

Our old rival Bucknell was fortunate in securing a victory over our nine in both games played although their team was not as good caliber as our own. The breaks of both games were in their favor and by freak plays unearned victory went to them.

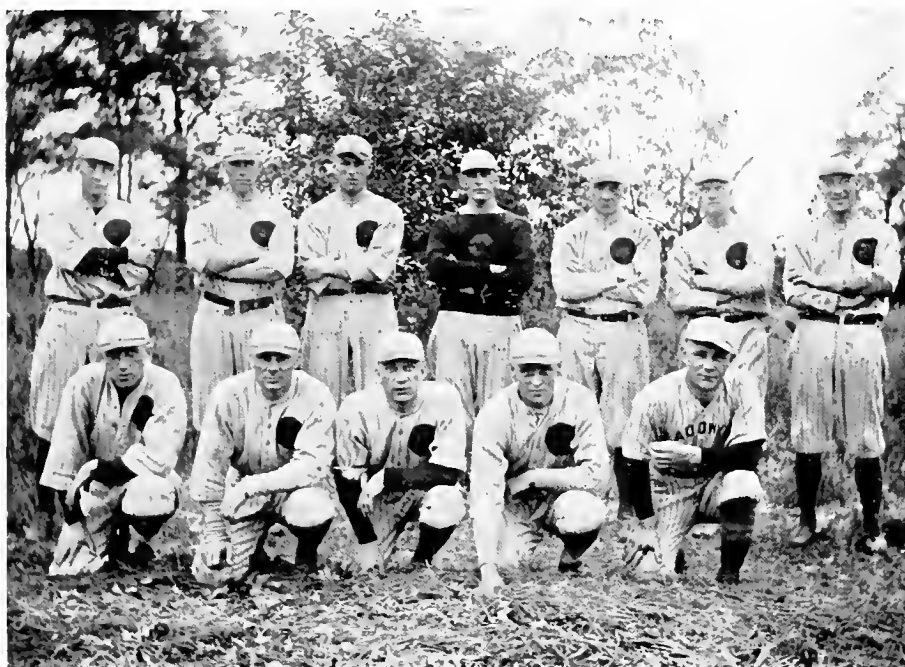

In summing up the season it can be well said, that the season was a successful one and greater prospects are ahead for Susquehanna's representatives of America's National pas-time.

APRIL 1920

With the coming of April showers the Lanthorn staff of '22 entered upon their journey over the stormy sea of publishing an annual. The most immediate task was the keeping of this chronology. The result of our efforts, greatly condensed because of necessity, we present in the hope that it will at least give you something by which to recall the events of the past year which has sped by so quickly.

Like the trees, the dorm showed quickened life. The new girls were a center of interest as usual while everybody started to clean house—Blough used a shovel.

Governor Sproul opened the ball for the endowment campaign with a speech in behalf of S. U. at Sunbury. And throughout the month the thing most talked about was the five-hundred-thousand-dollar-drive. Banquets and conferences followed each other in rapid succession while the campaign office became a regular match factory. Joe Stremer starred in this respect favoring Northumberland. Class teams were organized and competition ran high, but after all was done the Seniors finally carried off the pennant. Susquehanna students did the "handsome" thing with a pledge of eleven thousand dollars.

The events of the first week were Irish Hoke's appearance in the dining hall, Prof. Jessen's fight with the piano in chapel in which he was forced to retire in bad order, and Ted's telephone call to Seibert Hall. He stuttered much but she understood quite well.

There followed a period of rough housing for Baer and a meeting between the faculty and the "third floor gang." Hoffman blurted out, "Not prepared, Doctor," when questioned.

On Thursday "Doc" and "Marie" had an anniversary party. Oh, sweet memories. Fussing became quite general and hikes were planned in search of Arbutus. On Sunday Myron Cole took Spangler's girl in search of spring flowers while Jack walked around distractedly, but wore some flowers that evening nevertheless.

Our base ball fans were quite pleased with the varsity for winning all three games this month, while the tennis courts overflowed with teams preparing for the coming tournament. Good came to the conclusion that he was "no good" at base ball, and Stettler made good in his initial performance on the mound.

Some of the big surprises of the month were Prof. Keener's appearance at breakfast; Baker's payment of his class dues; John Rine's matrimonial alliance; and "Deac's" salute to the minister.

The month closed with a very interesting and entertaining number of the Lyceum Course. Bergdorfer delighted and inspired everybody for further labor. Goodbye April.

MAY 1920

Kappa Delta Phi set the month in motion by giving a delightful party at the Keystone Hotel. Shoaf worked for his "Father in Law", and Kauffman preached to his girl at Dogtown. But Esther did wrong, at least Mrs. Jessen said so.

Tennis continued at a mad pace "Sliver's" and Evelyn especially showed an interest in the "courting" game while Dalby and Olive excelled in early-bird matches evoking groans from under the counterpanes in Gustavus Adolphus.

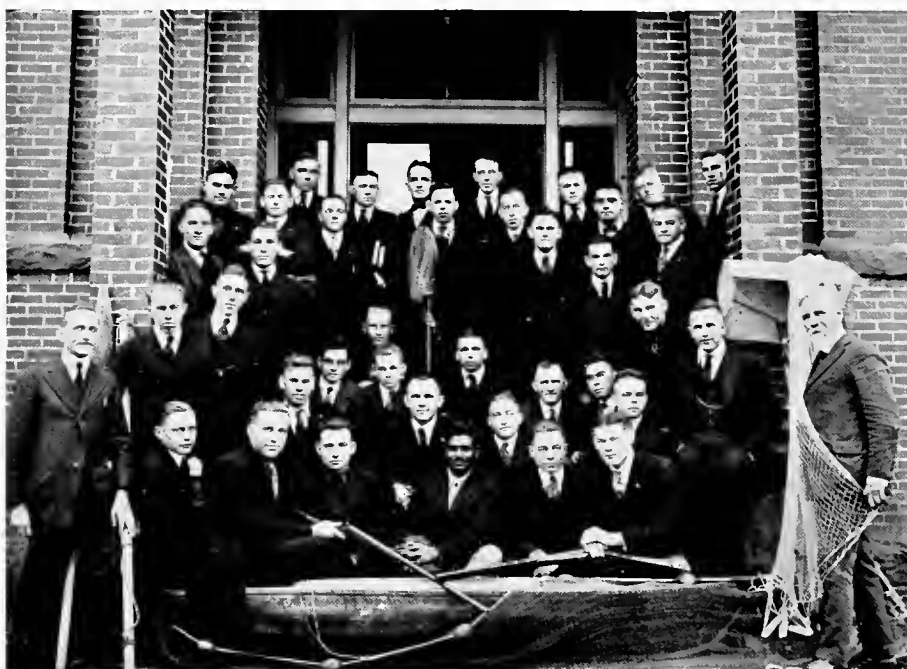

Do you remember the good time we had at the "Mixer" at Seibert Hall Monday night? Poor Jakey, you can't tell whose heart belongs to such a pair of feet. The Freshmen enjoyed their privileges to the limit, each one selecting a girl, but Archie didn't get the one he wanted. Baer was lucky and stayed late. Sympathy was all Pete got because he had mumps.

Naughty, naughty, Marks put on a Ballad entitled, "No beard A-Tall"; "Somebody" played a trick on Prof. and Mrs. Jessen with over ripe eggs; and Shannon confessed his interest in the Senior class, while "Hank" declared nature is all around us, and Jack got bawled out by the head cook.

Picnics at last. The Juniors spent their day at Shekillemy and had a wonderful time; the Freshmen picked on Mahanoy with the usual menu, doggies and buns, but they lost the buns; the Sophomores, prone to languishing 'neath the shady trees, hied away to Rolling Green.

Then came the Y. M. C. A. entertainment when Auman gave away the Concert Five secrets and Swoope proved his ability as a janitor. But the Legion Carnival was not so much outshone and Seaman was very much in demand as usual. Beam remained at home as pious as ever. No worldly things for him since the Y. M. C. A. Convention.

Our team hit a snag and lost two in succession. Then came the Bucknell tournament which we lost also,—much woe in the world. Sleepy Hollow tried to enliven things abit with a Victrola, but Prof. Allison didn't feel sympathetic.

With the coming of June bugs we began to prepare for Commencement and May passed into history.

JUNE 1920

And this is the end of the year. Oh, what a wail from the procrastinators. Cram, cram, cram for the stiff exam.

The Business Department and the Academy seemed to have plenty of time and decided to have a few picnics and suppers. Prexy made a speech in Chapel and felt constrained to offer a gentle hint that restrictions were still on.

Now comes the round of good times which marks the close of every year. The Y. M. C. A. Reception, the Joint Society, the Fraternity and Sorority Receptions, all kept us stepping. Full dress became a habit and Alumni quite common. Here we pause and silence reigns supreme for three months.

SEPTEMBER 1920

With the falling of leaves and other signs of autumn S. U.'s old students came back to her; there came also a motley crowd of new seekers after knowledge. These unknown specimens were speedily shown there place by the obliging Sophs, with aid from shingles, water, etc.; leaving the town overstocked with red paint and posters.

19 LANTHORN 22

Wednesday morning brought the first chapel with Dr. Aikens and Dr. Houtz trying to explain the new enrollment cards. Just as Prof. Keener finished explaining to a Freshman how to drink coffee, Ted, a Senior, fell over the table. Swanger and Ritter return to find the furniture removed from their room, and Sam Korman forgot his girl's picture. Dr. Surface discovered a new kind of bees, "Horney Bees". Dr. Lytle treated Baker and Sweeley to the coca-colas, then "Deak" took a quart bottle to chapel for George Moyer who only goes as a visitor. Baer made Sauerkraut to feed Tom Raymer, who had lately become a Lap-lander. So September passed away with the mystery of Beam's room still unsolved. How did a young lady's coat get there? We now turn to October ready for hard work.

OCTOBER 1920

The Sophomores lost the annual tie-up to the Freshmen as usual, but vowed to get even by making a concentrated attack upon their divided forces in the wee small hours of the night. Kapp was the first victim. The Orange and Maroon warriors held Colgate scoreless and came home Sunday to a proud student body. The Royal Order of Grave Diggers held a joint meeting with the Old Maid's Convention in the Cemetery on Monday night at 11:59.

No heat in Seibert Hall, so the girls went to the movies, but in their absence Nora Goff burned out the lights and they were obliged to retire in darkness. Mildred Winston received the booby prize at the dorm entertainment, but poor Miss Cole fell through the ceiling. Then the bells rang continuously adding to the weirdness of the occasion.

The Omega Delta Sigma held a reception for the new girls at Rolling Green after a two hours wait. The Foot Ball Team left for Harrisburg with a large body of loyal rooters, but it was too warm, so we lost. Next Gualladet came and went without a sound and the new bleachers arrived which gave the Freshmen something to do.

"Dead Stock Removed", was the sign that greeted our eyes as we entered the dining room on the 25th, so Hank sat on the fly paper, but it didn't kill him. Weikle smuggled a Sunday paper into church and John Cole sang Amen one verse too soon at the M. E. Ain that is all for October.

NOVEMBER 1920

The Presidential Election was all we heard at the beginning of this month and it did some good for Prof. Keener paid his taxes to send Prof. Woodruff to the Legislature, but Mum Seel had to buy new rubbers for a trip up Salt River.

The upper classmen appointed a Vigilance Committee, whose names are never spoken above a whisper by the Freshmen. Time to pay term's expenses, so woe to you who have spent your money at the Jigger shop. Varsity went to Emmitsburg by auto and had a lot of trouble. The Chevrolet broke down five times, therefore, they stayed out all night.

Rabbit meat popular in the dining room but the Faculty enjoyed venison. On Tuesday the 9th a fine musical number was rendered by the Freshman Quintette, under the direction of the "Death House Gang", for the benefit of Seibert Hall. Thursday no school, Armistice Day, and it nearly ended in a tragedy for Wagner was poisoned, but he took soap and mustard as antidotes. Candles were used instead of electric lights in Society. Tom recited in Greek without preparation and then ate a gallon of ice cream to keep it from spoiling. Deak and Red celebrated our defeat, but Albright went home happy. George Allen thot a pool room was a place to swim in and Chubby disliked a mixture of beer and limburger cheese. Varsity foot ball men received letters in chapel and Sweeney was elected 1921 captain. The Glee Club have first full dress rehearsal, but Hazel came to breakfast for half dress rehearsal, so we had better close November before more undress rehearsals come along.

DECEMBER 1920

December came in our midst at last with every body anxiously looking forward to Christmas Vacation. The students showed lots of pep at the opening of the Basket Ball Season when the Juniors defeat Sunbury High 29-17. In order to encourage the students for chapel attendance the Faculty displayed their atendance record in chapel; Prof. Keener got a zero. All the fellows who had money dropped everything when they saw Prexy's farmer coming and made a dive for him because he was selling apples cheap. Freshmen showed up the upper classmen at a Spelling Bee in Clio; Captain Ruth Bastian "stars". Bill Decker spent a week end at Beavertown, but Goss and Sigler stayed at home and cleaned house. For sale, a brand new radiator, (not for a Ford). Apply or call "Third Floor Gang" North end.

On Thursday the 8th the Executive Committee banqueted as guests of Registrar Horton. They came to complete the plans for the New Boys' Dorm. Did they have aeroplanes in olden times? Foultz told us in Junior Bible "Matthias flew to the mountains with his family". On the 11th Bohner received a Christmas gift. They must expect one in return. Ruth Bastian boasted that she had never been kissed, but on this, the 12th, Bastian, Ruth, a girl of truth, received her first kiss. H. W. G. you lucky boy. One of our co-eds had a dream of Harvey preaching to her about Heaven. Preamyae saw his first snowflakes and thought they were goose feathers. Students started cramming for examinations and woe unto those who didn't appreciate Dr. Houtz's stories in Algebra class. Leap year neared its close with some lucky but most otherwise and we left S. U. not to return until another year.

When we returned to start a new year the following improvements greeted our eyes: A telephone in the Y. M. C. A. room and the rostrum in Chapel enlarged. But what pleased the fellows most was the installment of two lights before the mirrors in the Gym. Now we can shave without cutting our throats.

The "Silent Order of Vagabonds" organized at Seibert Hall with "Peg" keeping guard and Thelma bobbed her hair. Following the regular order, Chapel attendance was below normal for the Junior class. The first scandalous rumor that came to our ears was that "Cots" Schoch and Red Swoope were engaged. A new addition arrived at the boys dorm when Kauffman received a Great Horned Owl from home. Now he can look wise. A day of happiness occurred in the girls dorm. Kate appeared to be lost without Bill. Burns went skating without Dot and Mrs. Kimble took the girls for a healthy walk.

19 LANTHORN 22

Winter finally arrived, the pipes froze on the second floor. Putting up ice for S. U. is the order of the day. Jarrett celebrated by taking a bath in Penns Creek. Coasting appeared to be popular with the co-eds. There was only one fatal accident. The out come of this accident was that Judge started down the hill (alone)? Lewis Pawling changed his course, so the forestry class went to Middleburg to hear Pinchot without him. Theologs again stepped over the threshold of Seibert Hall making everybody happy, but Tom and Esther who were locked out. More scandal some girls received Bucknell callers and Erb lost his pajamas on a Glee Club trip. A Llama skin came from Peru for Alfonso it was alright although we appreciated the eats that came to Bohner more. And so we passed into February.

FEBRUARY 1921

We now come to February, the month in which the girls talk the least, because it is the shortest. On the first Sunday it rained and many students thought it was too wet to go to church, but they welcomed the girls home from their basket ball trip just the same. John Cole broke his past record by sleeping in church.

While Prexy was away on business the Seniors beat the Freshmen in basket ball. No ethics—the Seniors disappointed. The D. A. R. gave their lecture on the Pilgrims in England, but Prexy gave a Faculty Reception and the Juniors defeated the Business 40-10. Baer entertained Zoe over the week end and took in the basket ball game. Seibert Hall fever struck Leshner. Students cut classes to attend murder trial. Some intentionally went to the wrong court room, and heard two trials. The girls raised money for a parlor lamp by cleaning, pressing, shoe-shining, selling eats, and giving dancing lessons. The new organized Epsilon Sigma Fraternity held a Chicken and Waffle supper at the National Hotel. Some had Sunbury girls.

Varsity lost to Bucknell 33-28. A Lincoln program was rendered in Clio to a large and appreciative audience. We had mince pie for dinner, which badly crippled the Gym team. Bill Decker must work behind locked doors to keep Katie away, but Steumpfle "blooms". Esther and Tom followed in the foot steps of "Paw" and "Maw" Foulitz and exchanged pins. Boys carried their laundry to the laundry, then ate a Sauer-Kraut dinner at which "Freckles" rejoiced.

Residents of boy's dorm objected to cornet solos at midnight. Ted won the D. A. R. Prize Essay Contest after enjoying a half holiday on Washington's Birthday. With the explosion of the Junior Promenade we close this chronology and turn March over to the class of '23 wishing them every success in the publishing of their year book.
